

Beverley Blues Weekender 2016

This, the 6th 'Blues Weekender' takes place over the 21st to 23rd October.

After last year's successful event it returns again and features some fantastic national and local blues bands and artists.

Headlining this year on the Saturday night, at the all new Parkway Theatre situated in the new cinema complex, Flemingate, are Tom Attah & The Bad Man Clan. Tom and his band return by popular request after kicking up a storm appearing at the annual event two years ago. Expect a night of hard felt blues performed with the energy and style only The Bad Man Clan can provide.

Supporting them are Soft Shoe Sam, a renowned bottle neck/slide guitar player and vocalist and the local favourites, six piece band The Juke Joint Kings, performing some classic Chicago style blues.

Each year Beverley Blues raises money for the music therapy charity Nordoff Robbins and features a dedicated stage at The Sun Inn, Flemingate. Here you will find a free event featuring national and local bands and artists on the Friday night and all day/evenings on the Saturday and Sunday. Performers over the weekend include Crosscut Saw, Chris Martin, Chord on Blues, Dogfinger Steve, Rivers Johannson, Steve Fulsham, Julian Socha, Freddy James, Chequered Past, Chicago Bound, John Lawson, Brian Williams and more. A Weekender not to miss!

Tickets for the Saturday Headliner event are only £9 and available from the Beverley Blues Website at www.beverleyblues.com or from the Parkways booking office, Tel (01482-968090).

Further details on the whole weekend can also be found at www.beverleyblues.com